Forgive our sin and raise us to new life, so that we may serve you faithfully, work for justice, and spread your compassion to all. In Christ’s name we pray. Amen.

JUMPAHEAD

With the start of our summer worship schedule of one worship service at 10:00 a.m., the children at Westminster will "jump ahead" a grade for the summer months. Among other things, this means that those currently in 4K Sunday School will begin attending the first part of the worship service with their families, then will leave with one of the ministers for Children's Church. This also means that those finishing 1st grade will no longer attend Children's Church and will begin staying through the entire service. Look for backpacks for the rising 4K group available in the Sanctuary Atrium beginning Sunday, June 9, and children's worship packets for the older children to aid their worship experience.

WOMEN OF WESTMINSTER SCHOLARSHIP

Each year the Women of Westminster offer scholarships to provide financial aid among our college and graduate student membership. Any Westminster member who will be furthering their education in the fall is eligible to apply. Applications are available from the church office or online at www.wpc-online.org. PARI PASSU

Through the years, I held onto a considerable chunk of my childhood memorabilia. From station to station, I carried along a cardboard box of important things. The box was irregularly ordered with evidence of athletic achievements, report cards, random correspondence, photos of prom dates and soccer teams, newspaper clippings, a poem that was once published in a magazine, programs from graduations and ceremonies I had attended. All the good days, never the bad.

In the way people today catalogue, or at least curate, their lives through Instagram, Facebook, and the like, I had curated the early part of mine in a box that I kept in the attic. Recently, I threw the box and its contents in the trash.

It was time. Past time. No time right or wrong, but just time. There was no vanity for me in these belongings, apart from their being a record of my existence. Existence, of course, being its own vanity. But as I unceremoniously dumped them into the trash bin, it occurred to me that I, alone, and no one other than me, was even capable of caring about the collective contents of that box. I had been the only one. And at that moment, I was no longer.

It is said that the universe, all of creation, is no small thing. It is said that it goes on forever. It is said that somehow through tricks with time and space, the universe not only goes on forever, but is also constantly expanding. It only took the vacuousness of a curbside trash bin to swallow up evidence of a considerable portion of my existence. I shudder to imagine what the whole of creation will do with the remainder of my earthly being. In the face of the monstrousness that is an infinite universe, what is the value of my time and toil here on earth?

In Psalm 8, the psalmist asks God, "What are human beings that you are mindful of them." The self-same psalmist answers by declaring that God has crowned us with glory and honor and given us dominion over all of creation. Dominion. Not just control, but we are also given responsibility and a considerable one at that. I look around and wonder if indeed we are up to the task. I don't mean just the planet and whether we are acting responsibly with it. Though I do wonder about that. I also mean the people who inhabit the planet. Are we acting responsibly with ourselves?

We are told in Genesis that God's desire for creation is that it be fruitful. Under our dominion, it is incumbent on us then to work toward making life on earth flourish for each of us, the strong and the weak, the young and the old, the haves and the have-nots – for all the children of God.

In that way, as I go along in my life now, I want to ask the value of the things that I collect in my box. Do they make life on earth flourish? Or are they collected for my benefit alone?

Scott Clark
