

Christ the King Sunday

Preparation for Worship

“There's a long road of suffering ahead of you. But don't lose courage. You've already escaped the gravest danger: selection. So now, muster your strength, and don't lose heart. We shall all see the day of liberation. Have faith in life. Above all else, have faith. Drive out despair, and you will keep death away from yourselves. Hell is not for eternity. And now, a prayer - or rather, a piece of advice: let there be comradeship among you. We are all brothers, and we are all suffering the same fate. The same smoke floats over all our heads. Help one another. It is the only way to survive.” – Elie Wiesel in Night

JERUSALEM

* Prayer of Confession

Holy God,

we confess that we have neglected to declare Jesus the king and model for our lives.

We have been quick to call on others to follow the ways of Christ yet slow to do the same.

We have been bold in demanding generosity,

mercy, and forgiveness

yet quiet when it comes to offering inclusion,

love, and compassion.

Forgive us, O God.

Restore in us, yet again,

the commitment to be more Christlike

in word, in deed, and in spirit. Amen.

* Assurance of Pardon

Leader: Friends, believe the good news of the gospel.

People: In Jesus Christ, we are forgiven.

* Gloria Patri

Hymnal, #581

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Ghost; as it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be,

world without end. Amen, Amen.

I believe in the Holy Ghost; the holy catholic Church; the communion of saints; the forgiveness of sins; the resurrection of the body; and the life everlasting. Amen.

VOLUME LXXV | November 20, 2022 | No. 29

From the Pews, Rob Warren

“God is our refuge and strength.” – Psalm 46

When informed of this week's scripture, I got the distinct sense that I'd heard it before. A comforting reminder for certain, but one that often feels like it is played on repeat.

Although I may be a long way from becoming a biblical scholar, I am never that far from Google, and a quick search informed me that the word “refuge” is used 88 times in the Bible. Mostly in the Old Testament. Frequently in Psalms.

We've all had to repeat ourselves, but 88 times? That seems excessive. But then I wondered:

If the message is important, then why should it change?

Flash back to a recently-married Amanda and me as we looked for a church home and visited Westminster. At that time, the church was in a campaign to renovate and expand its weekday school, Sunday School and youth facilities, and gymnasium. I sat in the pew and considered the fact that Westminster was investing so much in people who were very young or had not even been born yet.

Additional Sundays at Westminster taught us about the church's focus on mission, outreach, and service resulting in a considerable portion of the annual budget being dedicated to those endeavors. First in Greenville and our own community, and then in farther-flung corners like the Dominican Republic, Cuba, and Malawi.

The message was clear: help others and build up the Westminster community.

Since that first Sunday, Amanda and I have had the privilege to serve Westminster in various capacities. We have participated in some of that outreach and engaged in some of that mission work. We started our family, and suddenly, our children were reaping the benefits of the investment that this congregation made in its young people. Now Zach and Cam are old enough that all four of us can share in more of those experiences.

Come back to the present, and Westminster continues to grow. New member classes overrun the front of the sanctuary. No less than 1,400 baptisms occur on an annual basis! Hundreds of students participate in It's Elementary and the Middlers and Senior High youth programs. Each year, the impact that Westminster makes through missions and outreach shows the generosity of this congregation.

We help others and build up the Westminster community.

Flash forward to a time when our pews have even more new faces. Maybe they belong to new members. Maybe they belong to others who are just visiting, searching for their own church home. I'm grateful for a Westminster that will still prioritize the growth and development of its congregation, while making an impact through its service to others.

If the message is important, then why should it change?

Short Sermon, Big Impact: Exploring the Sermon on the Mount led by Leigh Stuckey Room 212

The Sermon on the Mount is perhaps Jesus’ best known and most widely repeated set of sayings. In it, Jesus sets out an alternative vision for the world, one in which God, not Caesar, is king. God’s kingship has implications for all of our living, but our familiarity with the Sermon on the Mount (and particularly the Lord’s Prayer) has dulled us to its call. Join Leigh for this lecture style class that explores modern implications for the Lord’s Prayer and the little sermon.

How to be Perfect
led by Ted Gentry Room 209

Drawing on the acclaimed book of the same title by television writer and producer Mike Schur (Brooklyn 99, Parks and Recreation, The Good Place, etc.), this course seeks to talk in everyday language about questions of moral philosophy. What does it mean to be “good”? Why should we bother? If we practice, and understand the tools of moral philosophy, can we actually behave better?

We will tackle questions as simple as whether to return a shopping cart to the corral in the parking lot, and as complex as cancel culture and abortion. We will be applying slippery ideas to a complex and frustrating world, so the answers may not always be satisfactory. But the premise of the course is that thinking carefully about what we are doing, and why we are doing it, will help us to be better people.

We will also hear from Todd May, retired Professor of Philosophy at Clemson and adviser to Schur on The Good Place and on How to Be Perfect.
